

Special Issue: Textbook Analysis, the Common Core, and the C3 Framework
Vol 5, No 1 (Winter 2015)
Table of Contents

Introduction

Bringing textbook analysis to the K-12 classroom: Introduction to the special issue. [\[PDF link\]](#)
1-4
Scott L. Roberts, Guest Editor

Text Analysis in State History

Examining contemporary anti-German and anti-Catholic perspectives through the Salzburger narrative in middle level Georgia history textbooks, 1904-1954. [\[PDF link\]](#)
5-18
Scott L. Roberts and Charles J. Elfer

Theory to practice: Textbook analysis in the social studies classroom. space between [\[PDF link\]](#)
19-30
Heather MacKenzie

Text Analysis in United States History

What's missing from the textbook?: An inquiry-based lesson plan on the untold histories of labor unions. [\[PDF link\]](#)
31-43
Eli Kean and Adam J. Schmitt

They did not pause to wipe their foreheads! Using the C3 Framework to critique arguments in history texts. [\[PDF link\]](#)
44-53
Jay M. Shuttlesworth and Amy Mungur

Text Analysis in World History

Humanizing the disciplines: Historical thinking and students' understanding of the Nature of Science. [\[PDF link\]](#)
54-67
Erin Peters Burton, Anthony Pellegrino, and Melissa Gallagher