UGA Summer Intensive Communication Programs for Children and Adults

Evidence-based, client-centered intervention and enrichment to improve speech, language, and social communication. Choose from three programs.

Puppy Talk (June 18–29): Intensive program for children aged 3–6 years

Big Dawgs (July 16–July 27): Intensive program for children entering grades 2–5

Puppy Talk and Big Dawgs include evidence-based, client-centered intervention and enrichment in early literacy, speech, language, and social communication for children in a creative, interactive atmosphere. Children without specific speech or language needs are welcome and will receive developmentally appropriate language and literacy enrichment.

Smooth Dawgs (July 2–13):

Intensive practice in fluent speech for adolescents and adults who stutter. Smooth Dawgs focuses on prolonged speech, a research-supported approach to smooth, fluent speech. Clients learn speech fluency skills and learn to manage their stuttering in a supportive, outcomes-focused context.

Services will be provided by graduate student clinicians under the guidance and supervision of UGA faculty members with state licensure and national certification in speech-language pathology, early childhood education, and special education.
