

You May Have a Hearing Loss if...

- You frequently complain that people mumble, speech is not clear, or you hear only parts of conversations when people are talking.
- You often ask people to repeat what they said.
- Your friends or relatives tell you that you don't seem to hear very well.
- You do not laugh at jokes because you miss too much of the story.
- You need to ask others about the details of a meeting that you just attended.
- Others say that you play the TV or radio too loudly.
- You cannot hear the doorbell or the telephone.
- You find that looking at people when they talk to you makes it somewhat easier to understand, especially when you're in a noisy place or where there are competing conversations.

Your Child May Have a Hearing Loss if...

- Your child is inconsistently responding to sound.
- Language and speech development is delayed.
- Speech is unclear.
- Sound is turned up on electronic equipment (radio, TV, CD player).
- Your child does not follow directions.
- Your child often says "Huh?"
- Your child does not respond when called.
- Your child has had frequent ear infections.

If you have concerns, consult a nationally certified audiologist.
